Burlington County News in Brief

Clergy to attend emergency event

Burlington County will hold its first faith-based conferences on emergency preparedness and health with clergy members from 8 to 11 a.m. Wednesday at Riverton Country Club in Cinnaminson and at the same time at Deerwood Country Club in Westampton on Thursday.

Both conferences include breakfast. They are free, but advance registration is necessary.

Freeholder Aubrey Fenton, a minister with Abundant Life Fellowship Church, said topics include establishing forums on alcohol and drug abuse, homelessness, obesity and other health problems.

Discussion also will include county resources and finding grants.

The guest speaker will be J. Lewis Saylor, who serves on the Faith Communities in Action's interfaith emergency planning steering committee in Fairfax County, Virginia.

For more information, call health educator Holly Funkhouser at 609-265-5548.

Eight receive bicycles built by Virtua workers

They built them, and now kids are riding them.

About 40 employees from Virtua West Jersey Hospital-Marlton recently built bicycles with the help of Team Builders Plus, then presented the bikes to eight children, ages 9 to 12, from the Boys and Girls Club of Camden County.

Team Builder Plus, a leadership and team development firm in Cherry Hill, divided the Virtua employees in eight groups, then had them compete for bicycle parts, negotiate for the remaining parts, and present marketing campaigns to promote the bikes.

Medford sponsors a day painting the township

Medford Township is rolling out the canvas for about 30 area artists, each of whom will paint a scene from within the township.

The artists will have from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 7 to pick a location, get the painting surface authenticated, transport their supplies, and complete the painting.

The event, called Paint Our Town, includes a youth division. A total of $800 will be awarded, with $300 going to the winner. The winning painting will become part of Medford's permanent art collection.

Prizes will be awarded at 4:30 p.m. at the Public Safety See BRIEFS on L12

Faith Tucker, 9, and Robert Jones, 12, both of Camden, with the new bicycles they received from employees of Virtua West Jersey Hospital-Marlton. Behind them are (from left) Milford Liss of the Boys & Girls Club of Camden County; Merrick Rosenberg of Team Builders Plus; and Gary Long of Virtua West.
